

LEO IS STILL LIVING, AND GROWING WORSE

Physicians Marvel at His Wonderful Tenacity on Life--Has a Sleepless Night.

THE WHOLE WORLD WAITS THE END

His Holiness Takes Some Food, But He Is Rapidly
Sinking, and His Pulse Grows Fainter All the Time.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Rome, July 7, 4 p. m.—At four o'clock this afternoon his holiness is still alive and physicians announce that a puncture of the pleura has just been made and that eight hundred grammes of matter was abstracted. Rapid examination showed that mucous was rattling in the lung originally affected. Patient stood the operation well, maintaining his strength. General condition better and is now resting well though mind not so clear.

Paris Dispatch.
Paris, July 7.—An official telegram from the vatican at eleven today announces that the pope's end is very near. His condition is most serious and he is almost at the extremity.

Rome Worried
Rome, July 7.—Telegram continue to pour into the vatican asking for the pope's true condition. Many, especially from various rulers, are shown to his holiness, who expresses great satisfaction with the interest manifested in his condition.

Every Means
The story of the night's struggle of the pontiff shows that every means was used that science knows to fan the expiring sparks of the departing life. Time and again oxygen was administered to the patient and the room impregnated with reviving gas. On several occasions the pope dropped into a sound slumber, but it was one of exhaustion rather than rest and he generally awoke with perspiration flowing from the pores freely and in a state of depletion.

Retains Lucidity
Lapponi this morning early announced that it was merely the wonderful vitality that was keeping him alive and that he could advance no hope. He continues to take nourishment and retains wonderful mental lucidity. He was given soup at seven this morning and seemed benefited by it.

At Nine-Twenty
The official bulletin given out this morning at nine-twenty says: "Pneumonia with which his holiness has been suffering is now complicated by pleurisy and paralysis of the fingers. The pontiff passed a sleepless night."

An Early Account.
Rome, July 7, 7:42 a. m.—The Pope has taken nourishment four times during the night. His pulse shows a slight improvement. At 6:30 o'clock this morning he left his bed for an arm chair. His holiness will perhaps live through the day.

Would See Sun's Rays.
Rome, July 7.—Another morning has broken on the pathetic scene within the simple chamber of the vatican where Pope Leo lies dying. As the soft light of dawn penetrated into the room the pontiff whispered to his devoted physician that he desired the shutters of the windows to be opened, saying:

"I wish to see once more, perhaps for the last time, the rays of the sun." It was just a short while that the Pope came back to consciousness from a sleep which Dr. Lapponi had induced by a strong dose of chloral. His sleep was so deathlike that artificial respiration was continued and Dr. Lapponi every few minutes leaned anxiously over the couch to observe the illustrious patient and listen to his hardly perceptible breathing.

Feels End Is Near.
Pope Leo awoke wet with perspiration, feeble to his extreme and his voice hardly audible. The fits of coughing had brought on pains in his chest and shoulders, and, thinking his end was now near, he said to Dr. Lapponi: "Tell me when the time really comes."

The doctor assured his holiness that he believed the danger of his immediate passing was averted for the night and for to-day. These seemingly last moments of Pope Leo are full of solemnity. Perhaps his last hours would be less melancholy and sad if the august sufferer were less conscious of the circumstances and his mind less clear as to the duration of time remaining to him before he enters eternity.

Pope's Mind Is Clear.
Although his physical powers are at the lowest ebb and his breathing becomes more labored, the Pope's mind is clear, as is manifest to all around him by his bright, expressive eyes and the few words he now and then utters. The scene is so touching that those present can scarcely restrain their tears. Count Camillo Pecci, the Pope's nephew, whom the dying man kept by his bedside, was so exhausted by his contending emotions that he had to be taken from his uncle's room completely worn out. A few moments before as he stood bowed beside the bed Pope Leo laid his hand on his head with parental affection, saying: "Take courage."

Receives Extreme Unction.
Shortly after 10 o'clock at night the pontiff received extreme unction. At 9 o'clock his condition seemed so helpless that only a short time apparently remained before he would slide into his last sleep. At Dr. Lapponi's initiative a hasty consultation of the pope's relatives, Cardinal Rampolla and other ecclesiastics was held and it was decided that extreme unction should be given.

The pontiff received the announcement with his usual calmness, and though scarcely able to speak audibly he said he knew his time had come and he was ready to appear before the sublime tribunal with full trust in the divine mercy. Monsignore Piffert, Pope Leo's confessor, administered the extreme unction and when the ceremony was over his holiness sank back on the pillow with apparent great relief that all was done and that he was entering into rest after his long pilgrimage.

Leo Is Gratified.
After the administration of the vatican telegrams hoping for his recovery were shown to the pope and he appeared to be much gratified. One of the strangest features in his condition is the interest the pope takes in telegrams inquiring about his health. Having heard that a French lady whom he had received in audience a few weeks ago had telegraphed a message of sympathy, he asked to see the dispatch, and when Monsignore Piffert brought it he was not satisfied with looking at the message, but wished to read it.

Pontiff Gives Orders.
During the brighter interval on Monday the pope resumed his habits of command and insisted on giving orders for the preparation of the brief appointing Monsignore Volpini, actually secretary of letters to princes, as secretary of the consistorial congregation, a post vacant owing to the promotion of Monsignore Nocella to the cardinalate. The importance of such an appointment is manifest when it is considered that on the pope's death the secretary of state ceases to exercise his functions, which are assumed immediately by the secretary of the consistorial congregation. As the pope objected to having the oxygen inhaling apparatus continually under his nostrils, Dr. Lapponi Monday forenoon arranged to impregnate the whole atmosphere of the room with oxygen.

"That is much better," said the pontiff. "Before I felt as though I had lost my liberty."

Refuses to Obey Physician.
Although Dr. Lapponi continually recommended the patient not to speak and to pay no attention to what was passing outside, the pope gently refused to abandon participation in what was going on. He said, smiling, to Dr. Lapponi:

"I know you say this because of your affection for me, but either my last day is rapidly approaching, in which case I must employ all the time that is left to me so far as I can, or else I shall recover, again postponing the end. If this is the will of the Almighty, nothing can change it."

The pope wished his armchair to be carried near his writing table and then to the window overlooking the piazza of St. Peter's. Noticing many people in carriages, the pope said: "The piazza looks as it does when I am able to perform some public function."

Is Given Nourishment.
Dr. Lapponi's chief task now seemed the maintenance of the pope's strength. Some improvement was indicated Monday afternoon by the fact that the patient was more willing to take nourishment, which was administered at short intervals and consisted chiefly of bouillon, champagne, raw eggs and broth, but the doctor would permit the pope to take of anything in reason for which he expressed a desire, as there was special danger in the possibility of increased weakness.

Receives Secretaries.
The pope received Count Riccardo Pecci, a nephew, and spoke to him with great serenity of the probability that he would not long be with him, and then the pontiff received his secretaries, Monsignore Angeli and Marzolini, conversing with them regarding personal affairs, instructing them about his writings and giving directions as to the disposal of his books.

The pontiff made eager inquiries as to what communications were received at the vatican from foreign rulers and was extremely pleased to learn that M. Nisard, the French ambassador to the vatican, had in spite of the strained relations between the French republic and the holy see, called daily during the pontiff's illness and had expressed to Cardinal Rampolla the concert of the French government as well as that of President Loubet.

Expresses Sympathy.
On hearing that the Austrian ambassador to the vatican, Count Szecheny De Temerin, was ill the pope expressed his sorrow and said he hoped it was not as serious as his own case. When the pope was informed of Emperor Francis Joseph's dispatch, communicated to the vatican by the Austrian embassy, he said:

"The emperor and I are the only survivors of a past generation."

Great activity reigns among the cardinals now that it is sure a conclave cannot be far off. It was said that there had been an exchange of telegrams in cipher between the members of the sacred college in Rome and those in the provinces or abroad. Innumerable rumors are circulating and scarcely any cardinal is deprived of the flattery of being considered a candidate. However, besides those mentioned, the only other candidates who are regarded as having a fair chance are Cardinal Svampa, Archbishop of Bologna, and Cardinal Richelmy, Archbishop of Turin.

Rampolla's Chances.
Cardinal Rampolla is thought by many to have the best chance of being elected. According to the most accredited vatican gossip, however, Cardinal Rampolla has entered into an agreement with Cardinal Gottl, prefect of the congregation of the propaganda, to support the election of the latter on condition that he himself be appointed Gottl's successor as prefect of the propaganda, the holder of which post is called the "red pope."

THREE DEATHS FOLLOW EXPLOSION IN FACTORY

Discharged Foreman of Toy Gun Company Is Arrested on Suspicion by the Police.

Chicago, July 7.—Two men and a boy were instantly killed, a man was fatally injured and scores of others were maimed and bruised by an explosion which wrecked the two-story frame building at 7643 and 7645 South Chicago avenue, occupied by the Toy Gun Manufacturing company as a percussion cap factory.

Some mystery surrounds the cause of the explosion, and almost immediately after the dead and injured had been cared for Lieutenant Plunkett of the Grand Crossing station started an investigation, which resulted in the arrest of three persons.

One of the prisoners, Charles F. Graber, the police say, was discharged from his position as foreman of the factory, and when arrested was preparing to leave the city. Graber denies all knowledge of the explosion and lays the blame for the accident to carelessness on the part of officials of the firm.

In addition to the loss of life and injuries to many people, the explosion caused havoc among the residents of Grand Crossing and practically wrecked two other buildings. Windows in houses nearly a mile away were shattered and two horses attached to a wagon and standing in front of the factory were instantly killed.

To add to the terror of the accident fire broke out among the ruins of the wrecked factory and it was only by hard work that the firemen prevented a serious blaze.

BROKEN DAM CLAIMS SCORE OF VICTIMS

Twenty A : Known to Be Dead and as Many More Are Missing Along Brush Creek.

Jeannette, Pa., July 7.—Relief committees have been busy along Brush Creek valley searching for the dead and saving such property as was not utterly destroyed when the flood swept down from the broken dam at Oakford Park.

Twenty bodies have been recovered. As many more persons are known to be missing, and it is feared the death toll will reach half a hundred.

The monetary loss by the flood will reach $1,500,000. The awful power of the rushing waters is shown from the scenes of devastation all along Brush Creek valley, and especially in the towns of Oakford, Jeannette, Penn, Larimer, Greensburg, Irwin, Burrill, Manor and Wilmerding.

While the army of men searched among the debris for the dead, energetic brothers were calling the citizens of Jeannette together to provide means of relief for the suffering residents of the valley. Dozens of families had been driven from their homes and were practically thrown upon the charity of the town. In a few minutes $1,200 was raised. It was found that $5,000 was needed from outside sources, and the people of Jeannette trust their friends throughout western Pennsylvania will respond promptly.

EVANSVILLE NOW QUIET AFTER LAST NIGHT'S MOB

The City Is Strongly Guarded by Militia Companies, Who Are Patrolling
the Streets to Keep Order.

GOVERNOR DURBIN IS AROUSED

Seven Killed in the Fighting of Last Night, and Many More Are Seriously Wounded
by Stray Bullets.

(Special By Scripps-McLae.)
Evansville, July 7.—There is no further trouble in this city since last night's battle. Everything is quiet this morning. Vast crowds of people thronged about the jail and ropes stretched across in front of the sheriff's home kept the public from approaching too near the scene of last night's tragedy. The streets in many places are covered with blood where the dead and dying lay after the fight. The Vincennes company of militia have arrived and are on duty about the city.

Negroes Leaving
Hardly a negro is to be seen on the streets today. All the members of the colored fire department have resigned their positions and have left the city. The colored men employed in the public works have all failed to show up at work although promised protection of the soldiers.

Call Conference
Governor Durbin this morning sent a tart message to the mayor of the city telling him that law and order must be preserved in a better manner. He asked him to call a conference of the leading citizens to devise some means of keeping the peace. He demanded to know what the mayor planned to do and what he expected the state to do in such circumstances.

Brown Removed
Fearing trouble at Vincennes on account of the presence of Lee Brown, the colored murderer, he was secretly removed to the reformatory at Jeffersonville during the morning where he will be held under a heavy guard. This it is hoped will prevent a resumption of last night's riots. The night was noisy but the mob seems to be resting today.

Wild Night
In the riots seven people were killed, one fatally wounded and twenty others seriously hurt in a battle between the local militia company and the mob in a desperate assault by the latter on the county jail late last night. The injured include five members of the national guard and two deputy sheriffs.

The dead: Edward Schiffman, Hazel Allman, August Jordan, Ed Rule, two unidentified dead men. The wounded: Fred Schmidt, Fred Kappler, Lee Hawley, Robert Miller, Charles Preskey, Theodore Beem, John Fares, Albert Kaess.

Wounded Men Escape.

Six other rioters were seen to fall, but got away before their names were learned. At least as many more are believed to have been hurt.

Four members of company A, First regiment, suffered from bullet and gunshot wounds on the body. One of them was shot through the shoulder and another through the ankle. Two deputy sheriffs were slightly wounded.

Cause of Trouble.

The battle was the outcome of the riots which grew out of the recent murder of Patrolman Massey by Lee Brown, a colored resident of Evansville. After several determined efforts had been made to storm the jail and lynch the officer's murderer, Brown was spirited away to Vincennes, where he is lying in jail at the point of death as a result of wounds inflicted by Massey before the latter was shot dead.

Race riots have been continuing with greater or less violence ever since. The people were not altogether convinced that Brown was not still in jail here. Several attacks have been made on it, and the local militia were called out to protect the building.

Mob Abuses Militia.

At 10:30 o'clock Monday night a mob of 1,000 men gathered on Fourth, Division and Vine streets, determined to carry the jail and overpower the militia and 100 deputies under the sheriff. The crowd surged about the jail, calling the militiamen vile names, assailing them with stones and berating the deputy sheriffs.

The leaders, with a bicycle in their front as a shield to the bayonets of the soldiers, attempted to enter the alley and storm the alleyway entrance.

Captain Blum of the national guard ordered a charge on the rioters. Gradually the crowd was forced back, the soldiers using their bayonets and butts of guns.

First Shot Is Fired.
Suddenly a rioter fell. A soldier tried to drag him to his feet, but he fore he could was assailed by a rioter. Stones and bowlders began to fly through the air. A soldier was struck with a rock and fell. A rioter was knocked down with a gun butt, and then a shot was fired. The one shot started a fusillade of musketry and shotgun fire from the defenders.

There was a scattered return fire from the rioters. Fully 300 shots were fired from the jail windows, the court house steps immediately opposite and by the soldiers on the streets.

No one knows who fired the first shot. The soldiers claim it was the rioters, while the rioters make no claim and refuse to talk about it.

Result of the Melee.

The governor is said to have instructed the authorities not to jeopardize the safety of the jail with half-way measures. The soldiers and deputies fired into the retreating mob of men, who ran into Division street, falling, crying and praying. For fifteen minutes the firing continued; then it ceased. The mob was gone and the soldiers held the place.

In front of the staggering band of fifty-eight soldiers lay the dead and wounded. Moans and shrieks of agony and fear came from the injured. Ed Schiffman, who was seen in the first ranks of the mob during the evening, lay on the sidewalk, the top of his head blown completely off with a 45-caliber Springfield bullet, and his brains oozing on to the sidewalk.

Girl Onlooker Is Killed.

All over the street, crawling and moaning, wounded rioters and onlookers tried to ease their pain and escape by getting away from the jail.

On Division street, lying between her grief-stricken father and mother, the little Allman girl was dead, with her breast torn away with a buckshot charge. She was out driving with her parents, who, attracted by the noise, stopped a few minutes to watch the excitement.

In the yard of the court house wounded rioters lay, and back of the line of soldiers two of the militiamen had fallen. On the jail steps stood Sheriff Kratz. At his side was Colonel McCoy of the First regiment. Around them stood a few doctors and reporters.

Orders to Soldiers.

When the firing had ceased Capt. Blum reformed his men and gave them orders: "Keep that mob back; call on them to halt; if they don't halt shoot them down. We can't take any more chance. Men, be careful, but for God's sake keep a close watch." And his men prepared for another struggle.

It did not come. The rioters got out of sight quickly, and fearing that another charge would be made, scattered.

Sheriff Is Alert.

Sheriff Kratz looked to his deputies and volunteers, and handed out ammunition to the defenders of the jail. Inside the jail forty-three prisoners lay terrified in the darkness, sixteen of them negroes, whose lives are far from safe if the mob attacks the jail again and effects a capture. Lights were turned out when the shooting began, and the prisoners moaned and cried in their cells. Telephone messages were sent from the jail to the hospitals and to physicians calling for aid, and the response was quick. Doctors from all over Evansville drove rapidly at the call.

Reinforcements En Route.

The Vincennes company of militia is on its way here, and Col. McCoy fears another outbreak when it arrives. All is now quiet around the jail, the soldiers still standing under arms. Outposts are stationed to avoid guerrilla shooting from the neighboring streets with rifles. Gov. Durbin has summoned a number of prominent citizens to confer with him at once over the telephone to decide what action will be taken. Should an outbreak follow the arrival of the Vincennes company the Terre Haute company will be rushed here by special train.

Great Alarm Prevails.

The indictment of the negro, Lee Brown, for killing Patrolman Massey, and the assurance of the authorities of a speedy trial, has done little to subdue the excitement. The whites are convinced that an assault by the colored people is imminent and a

BREWERS MUST PAY LICENSES

OUTSIDE COMPANIES ARE TO DE-LIVER $500 EACH.

KNOCKOUT BLOW TO STALLS

Ordinance Prohibiting Wine Rooms
Goes Through—Licenses Granted—
Two Applications Thrown Out.

43 saloon licenses granted,
2 applicants turned down.
10 druggists' licenses granted.
Wine rooms abolished.
Outside brewers must pay license.
Local brewers selling to consumers must pay license.

The sale of intoxicants in this city was given the principal attention of the common council last evening.
The above list outlines the most important action taken by them.

Forty-five applications were made for licenses. In the majority of instances the renewal of license was asked although there were a few new names in the list of prospective saloon-keepers. Each application was accompanied by two bonds—one under the state law and one under the city charter—and by the treasurer's receipt for the five hundred dollars license fee. The bonds were without exception declared good, but upon recommendation of the city marshal licenses were refused to two of the applicants—W. A. Knipp and James Condon.

Applicants Turned Down
Upon this matter there was a division of opinion in the council and the resultant vote showed that five of the nine aldermen present favored upholding the marshal, while four desired to grant licenses to the entire forty-five applicants.

The marshal had previously conferred with one of the aldermen upon this point and informed him that the two rejected applicants—Condon and Knipp—were not fitted to hold the privileges of a license as they had not in the past conducted themselves in a satisfactory manner.

Every druggist in the city was given a renewal of his license to sell liquor. The total number was ten.

More Licenses Required
Following the example of many other cities of the state, the council decided to strictly observe the charter provisions and require outside brewing companies, having warehouses in this city, to take out licenses at a cost of five hundred dollars each. This action was taken on the advice of the city attorney who held that under a strict reading of the charter outside companies could not vend their product otherwise.

Carrying the point farther, it was decided that local breweries selling direct to the consumer should be compelled to pay the same license.

As to which brewing companies would come under the latter head, the alderman who brought up the question did not know. On the list of outside companies were Schlitz, Blatz, Gund, Getteman, Pabst, and Miller.

Stalls in Saloons Abolished
Not a dissenting vote was recorded when the wine room ordinance was given its third reading and put upon its passage.

Under the provisions of the ordinance, which has been before the council for several weeks and was drafted on recommendation of City Marshal Hogan, no stalls or wine rooms are permitted in any saloon in the city. In bringing the matter before the council for the first time Mr. Hogan declared that the stalls were responsible for a large proportion of immorality in the saloons.

The matter was brought up for its third reading and passed unanimously. The ordinance will go into effect upon publication.

MILWAUKEE ROAD'S EXCELLENT SHOPS

Has a Complete Outfit in West Milwaukee—A Model in Every Way.

The Chicago, Milwaukee, and St.
Paul car shops in West Milwaukee,
as a result of recent improvements are now able to build seventy-five locomotives a year, in addition to the better maintenance of the existing power. Among the improvements completed at the plant are an extension of the transfer pit 150 feet, and an addition of a two storied structure, 80 feet wide and 154 feet long, to the present tank shop end of the building, lying on the north side of the transfer pit. Across this pit a similar structure, 118 feet wide, is an addition to the erecting and machine shop. Seven new pits, making twenty-six in all have been added.

The blacksmith shop has been extended by a single storied structure seventy feet wide by 120 feet long, a wing 70x100 feet has improved the boiler shop, and a riveting tower stands at the point of junction with the new structure. The new power house, the three-quarter circle round house with modern coal and clender handling plants, a pattern storage building, and a frog shop are other improvements.

Boilers of 1,000 Horse Power
The boiler room in the powerhouse has been equipped with two batteries of Babcock & Wilson water tube boilers, whose total horse power is 1,200, while space has been reserved for another battery of 600 horsepower when its addition shall become necessary.

The engine room contains two Nordberg cross compound
Corliss engines of 330 horsepower each.
Milwaukee 200 kilowatts direct current generators are directly connected with these engines. At the opposite end of the room is an Allis cross compound air compressor of 1,200 cubic feet free air a minute capacity.

About 300,000 gallons of water are consumed every twenty-four hours, by the locomotives passing through the roundhouse, and for other purposes, and a steel storage tank of 200,000 capacity has been erected near the power plant. The upper floor of the new section of the machine shop is equipped with machine tools, more than keeping pace with the erecting department. This floor is served with two elevators.
One of these is electric, located in the center of the floor, and the other is hydraulic, for heavy material, located outside the building.

New Tools in the Tinshop
The second floor of the tank shop addition is to be devoted to the work of incidental departments, and in this connection the tin and copper shop is being supplied with many new tools. The new riveting tower is being equipped with a twenty-five foot span, twenty-five ton, electric serving crane, and much machinery is being added. The addition to the blacksmith shop is merely a continuation of the single storied building. It is equipped with an extension of the serving trackage system, and a generous supply of machinery for working scrap has been added.

The scrap yard not only takes and handles all locomotives and car castings, including car wheels, but furnishes other departments as well,

HOST ISSUES A WARNING WORD

He Presents a List of Insurance Companies for People to Be ware Of.

A warning against "wild cat" or unlicensed fire insurance companies which are doing business in the state has just been issued by Insurance Commissioner Host in a circular letter, in which he says:

TO THE PUBLIC:
I desire to warn the citizens of Wisconsin against a great many fire insurance companies that are transacting business in the state without authority and in direct violation of the law.

The department of Insurance receives inquiries nearly every day about companies that are not licensed to transact business in Wisconsin. Any company that is willing to defy and evade the laws of this state cannot be trusted to settle its claims. Furthermore, a policy holder having a claim against one of these wild cat companies would be compelled to bring suit against the company in the state in which it is organized in order to recover his claim, and the chances are that he could collect nothing from the company.

The laws of Wisconsin provide that any person representing unauthorized companies in this state, is liable to the insured in case of loss and the company refuses to pay it. In most cases however, wild cat companies cannot secure responsible people to represent them, therefore,
this law does not protect the insured for as a rule, persons representing wild cat companies are irresponsible and a judgment against them is worthless.

During the past six months, I have heard of the following companies transacting business in this state without a license:

American Trust and Insurance Co.,
Illinois.

American Underwriters of Illinois,
Illinois.

Commonwealth Savings and Insurance Co. of Virginia.

Great Northern Insurance Co., of Illinois.

Mercantile Fire Insurance Co., of Illinois.

National Insurance and Investment
Co., of Delaware.

Northern Fire Insurance Co., of Illinois.

These companies have no standing in their own states and are defrauding this state of taxes and fees for which this department has collected during the past six months, $500,000 from duly authorized companies.
It is an injustice to authorized companies to permit wild cat companies to transact business in the state, and with a view of eliminating wild cat insurance, I appeal to the public to investigate their insurance policies and ascertain if the companies are authorized to transact business in Wisconsin, by calling on their agent and requesting him to show his certificate of authority to represent the company, unless they are positive the agent has such authority. Furthermore, a policy holder accepting insurance in wild cat companies is liable to the city or village maintaining a regularly organized fire department for the taxes due them for the maintenance of such department and is guilty of violating the laws of Wisconsin if the tax is not paid annually to the treasurer of the city or village.

Yours truly,
ZENO M. HOST,
Commissioner of Insurance.

LIBRARY COST UNDER $40,000

CARNEGIE AND ELDRED GIFTS WERE ADEQUATE.

REPORT FOR THE PAST YEAR

Many Books Were Circulated—Expense of Operation—Building Closed Evenings.

Up to the present time the expense of building and equipping the Carnegie library has reached a total of $33,110.11.

These figures are embodied in the annual report of the board of library directors, which was submitted to the city after a meeting of the board held yesterday afternoon.
$40,000 made up the total sum which the library board had at its command, $30,000 having been given by Andrew Carnegie, and $10,000 by the Eldred memorial fund. Of that amount $889.89 remain on hand. The last of the bills for building expenses have not yet been received. Owing to limitations in the amount of money which could be devoted to the building, two rooms on the second floor of the building were left unin-ished. By so doing ample space was left for further growth, while the original appropriation was not exceeded.

Expense Last Year

For the running expenses of the library for the fiscal year just closed the total outlay reached a figure ap-proximating $3,500. That is the sum of the appropriation granted the library. The balance on hand is $644.63, and is accounted for, roughly, by the balance of the previous year and the money received by the sale of books, fines, and rebates on insurance.

The terms of three members of the library board, Miss Gertrude Cobb, Stanley B. Smith, and Michael Hayes, have expired, and their successors will be appointed by the mayor and approved by the council.

Many Books Circulated

Of the books which were drawn from the library during the past year, 21,542 were from the main library and 11,193 from the children's department. 10,739 works of reference were consulted.

There were at the time of the last report 15,176 volumes, and since then 494 volumes have been purchased, 15 volumes donated to the library, and 85 volumes rebound, 400 volumes of magazines have been secured to complete files.

During the foregoing twelve months 101 books have been worn out, 5 lost, and 9 duplicates sold.

At the present time the library possesses 15,664 volumes.

To Close Nights
Following the custom of past summers, the library will hereafter be closed every evening save Wednesdays and Saturdays. In September the building will again be open every evening. There was some thought of keeping the building open this summer to make allowance for the period of time it has been closed this past year, but the board last evening decided to adhere to the custom of past years.

MAYFLOWER ONCE MORE IN SERVICE

It is Now Being Used as a Raft
To Help Build the New Dam.

The old side-wheeler river steamer "Mayflower" has been pulled out of the river bottom, above Fourth avenue bridge, where she has lain for the last five years and is now used to hold the framework of a pile driver.

The old-fashioned craft used to be a familiar sight on the river
years ago, and many parties of excursionists and pleasure seekers up the stream have traveled on her. About five years ago the boat was sunk in midstream but was later pulled near the shore and dismantled. There she has rested, nearly submerged, gradually rotting and falling to pieces, until not much more than the mere skeleton remained. There, too, she would likely have stayed until the last timbers of the hull had fallen apart, but for the need, that the workmen who are building the cof-ferdam above Ford's mill race, had for a raft.

Some of the beams that supported the Mayflower were strengthened, new supports were put in, and under this framework the men placed nearly three dozen barrels. These were first made water tight and by this means the hull of the old boat was lifted from the muddy river bank. The pile driver framework was then built over where the deck once was, and is to be used in driving the logs that will make up the cofferdam.

This is to be placed above where the new wheel house of the Janesville Electric company will stand, and its purpose will be to keep the water from the river bed so that the cement foundation can be laid.

Farmers are very busy getting in their clover hay, which is a good yield—corn looks well, but needs a good many hot days to bring it on. Potatoes are in blossom, also the everlasting potato bug. Sugar beets prove a more tedious job than farmers expected, but they are doing well at present—pastures never were better.

Farmers have much to be thankful for and little to complain of at the present time, compared with some other states.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and warmer Thursday.

COUNTRY JOURNALISM

The Atlanta Constitution quotes Col. Alexander K. McClure, the veteran Philadelphia editor, as saying the happiest days of his journalistic career were those in which he was "the editor of a country weekly paper in Western Pennsylvania, and adds:

"There are thousands of the older men in the profession today who can heartily say 'Amen' to Col. McClure's experience. They remember those joyous old days in some ramshackle printshop in a country town; the old Washington press, the roller boy; the roller mold, and the casting of a new feller; the sitting up at night to mail the edition of six hundred—that six hundred, more formidable over public affairs and world interests than the charge made at Balaklava by that other six hundred of old England!"

It is often remarked that the best days of the country press are over; that the increase in mail facilities and the cheapness and rapidity with which city dailies are delivered over to country subscribers are destroying the country editor's opportunity, and that before the young man now seeking to establish a country journal there opens no such vista of influential work, and of happiness in doing it, as the old stagers enjoy in retrospect. But this view is only limited degree correct. The country press is and will remain an inseparable factor from the forces that make up our civilization. It has a work to do which can not be done by the city daily. Its editor has the same opportunity to make himself felt in the solution of the social, political and other "problems of his environment" that he has always had. Nay, his opportunity is greater. The cheapening of the mechanical processes and the benefits of rural free delivery accrue to him as well as to his city contemporary. He may not make a fortune, but if he nobly aspires to make his paper a helpful asset to his country dealing with all issues fairly and honestly, and filling the demand for neighborhood news, he is very likely to win a much higher reward as his sanctum becomes the center of beneficent influences. Not only influence but leadership, social and political, is very apt to follow a well doing of his work. The community is quick to discover that it owes support to the editor who is building up its interests and quickening its intelligence. It is only where a paper "occupies the ground" without real service that it falls of recognition and reward.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

IRON AND STEEL

Iron and steel imports will show a total of more than $50,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903. The Bureau of Statistics figures show for 11 months an importation of 47 million dollars' worth of iron and steel manufactures, against 23 millions in the corresponding months of 1902, and 16 millions in the same months of 1901. The total for the month of May 1903 was $3,679,821 and unless the June figures fall materially below those of May, the grand total for the year will be over $50,000,000.

This is in marked contrast with conditions of recent years. The total importation of iron and steel manufactures in 1898 was 12 1-2 million dollars; in 1899, 12 millions; in 1900, 20 millions; in 1902 27 millions and in 1903, as already indicated will be about 50 millions.

Iron and steel imports shows that the imports of iron and steel, made high records in the years of 1891, 1892, and 1893. In 1870 the importations were only 32 millions. From that point they gradually increased until 1873, when they were 53 millions; then they dropped to 9 millions in 1877, 1878 and 1879; then suddenly increased again to 53 millions in 1880 and 67 millions in 1882; then again moved downward to 33 millions in 1885; then mounted again to 53 millions in 1891, and from that time steadily decreased until they reached 12 millions in 1898 and 1899 only to once more move upward until in 1903 they will again pass the 50 million dollar line.

While importations of iron and steel are chiefly classed as "manufactures" it should be understood that they are almost exclusively of the "partially manufactured" class, in the form of pig iron, ingots, blooms, slabs, billets, bars, etc., to be used as working material by the manufacturers of the United States. The importation of pig iron shows a remarkable increase, the total value of pig iron imported in the 11 months of 1903 being over 15 million dollars against less than 3 millions in the corresponding months of last year, and a trifle above one million dollars in the same months of 1901.

The Wisconsin State Journal, and the Madison Democrat are having a worthy battle of the pens in the Capital city these hot days. Thus far the honors have been slightly in favor of the Democrat who has a very able editorial writer.

Another daily paper is talked of for Madison. This time it is the La Follette Organ, the State that may come into the field. Officeholders control the stock, and they would be able to have inside facts over any publication but the Free Press.

Last week a few more desultory moves were taken in court toward bringing ex-Lieut. Gov. Tillman of South Carolina to trial. Not being a colored man, the people of that state are not alarmed at the prospect of a delay in justice in his case.

Russia's reply to a respectful petition in the cause of humanity should not be a diplomatic snub. The incident opens an opportunity to give the Russian side of the case in an official statement.

Every small town in the country had a good old fashioned Fourth of July, while Janesville allowed thousands of dollars to go away from the city because nothing brought the crowd here.

Protection for the American industries and a full dinner pail. They were good mottoes three years ago, and they will not be change this year for any vagaries of an idea like the Iowa plank.

It is said that the Governor's faction have already picked out the man they want for governor if La Follette will not run again. His name begins with an L and ends with a T.

Pope Leo has shown that even a Pope cannot die without considerable arrangements and forthright. A poor tramp is much happier than a titled head for he can die without any fuss or worry.

One by one the old wheel horses are leaving the machine and the youngsters now at the head of affairs will soon have it in the mire so deep that it cannot be extricated without much trouble.

The railroads have met the tax commission in such a pleasant frame of mind it would look as though the best results would follow.

Some women are never happy themselves unless they are trying to boss someone else, or make them unhappy.

It was a touching thing to hear of an Emperor stopping in his pleasure trip to pray for the life and safety of a Catholic pope.

Some way or other, the average small boy of the American republic managed to make his usual amount of noise on the Fourth.

It is a question just now how much King Peter would enjoy being landed in the midst of a regular Fourth of July Celebration.

It is an assured fact that a man named Genatzky, who is of German nationality had a very fast auto-god-devil in the famous Irish races last week.

Slave days were not over in the South. Some men forgot that Abraham Lincoln made the black man free.

It is not necessary in a feud country to be able to read and write, but a man must be able to shoot.

All the returns from the Glorious Fourth are not yet in, but they are slowly coming to the front.

It is thought that perhaps Iowa is going to the republican column this year.

The Milwaukee Journal still keeps up its usual habit of predicting things that never happen.

Germany won the Irish International automobile race, and Emperor Willie was not at the helm.

Japan is real mad because Russia wants to grab all of Korea. Japan wants some of that land itself.

Servia has decided to banish the murderers of King Alexander by retiring them on full pay.

Any one else desiring to be a vice presidential candidate should speak up.

Fourth of July is over, the next holiday is Thanksgiving day.

Cummings got his "Irish up" but it did not do him any good.

Adlai Stevenson would carry Texas by a large majority.

Every man's collar is his barometer these hot days.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chicago News: A wave of popular reform in Delaware would not have to hunt up an employment bureau in order to find something to do just now.

Washington Post: While a negro and a Chinaman divided class honors at Yale, the athletic honors of the institution are still held by the whites.

Atlanta Constitution: While the liberty bell was in Boston its insensate lips were said to have been moist with the kisses of young women. The Boston girl is in a hard row of stumps, osculationally speaking.

Chicago News: Prof. Milynouk said that Americans and Russians are alike, but he was considerate enough not to back up his statement by references to the way in which the standards of law are maintained respectively at Kishenev and at Belleville.

Newark News: "With apologies to Brutus," added the royal assassin. For it was true, as the press dispatches stated, that he was a strictly honest and scrupulous man.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Don't let the irregularities in the post office department deter you from laying in just as large a stock of postage stamps as you care to purchase. There's nothing shabby about the concern.

Boston Traveller: A Missouri inventor is working on a burglar alarm that will take the photograph of the burglar, arouse the family and call police. Perhaps he will yet improve it so that it will locate the stolen goods after the burglar has made his escape.

Neenah Times: A dynamite plant has been established on the bay shore above Ashland. It is not thought that much of a town will spring up in that vicinity.

La Crosse Leader and Press: The way of the office-holder at Superior is hard. He usually must spend all the money he has to secure an election and then must fight, in the courts to collect his salary.

Milwaukee News: However, none of the distinguished "conservatives" have been hired to make speeches at Chautauquas. It seems that the people do not care to spend money to hear some one tell them that the old oaken bucket heats a steam pump.

Neenah Times: Editor T. J. Cunningham of the Chippewa Falls Independent, democratic, has been appointed by Governor La Follette as a member of the state forestry commission. It should be explained, however, that there is no salary attached to that office.

New London Republican: Some careless fireman let a drop or two of water splash on the Davidson theater chorus girls' costumes during Friday night's fire in Milwaukee. The dainty little things were utterly ruined. But the draft on the world's cloth supply necessary to replace the outfit will not be heavy.

Eau Claire Leader: The southern planter is getting 14 cents a pound for his cotton. The Wisconsin farmer is getting 30 cents a bushel for his potatoes, and now it is about time that the Dakota and Minnesota farmers should get a dollar for their wheat. Nothing less than that will compensate them for their labor.

Philadelphia North American: The success of the American rapid-fire luncheon in London will doubtless pave the way for a profitable invasion of the British Isles by vendors of patent dyspepsia cures made in America.

New York World: Few persons, perhaps, who celebrated flag day, realized that "Old Glory" is literally the oldest flag now in use in any of the great nations of the earth, antedating the present ensigns of England, France, Germany, Spain, Russia.

Princeton, Ill., Telegraph: During the recent term of court Charles Call was fined $500 for killing his brother. At the present term Thomas Morris was fined $1,000 for assaulting a school teacher and Curt Grimm has been given two years in the penitentiary for stealing chickens. This is a sliding scale of justice with a vengeance.

WIT AND WISDOM.

A dead love can never be revived.

One glance of the eyes may play havoc with a dozen lives.

"To love" is what? Active, passive, or neuter. Well, its "it," all right.

How can a woman keep her secrets when her eyes are tell-tales.

Platonic love is like dynamite, requires experience to handle it safely.

Love is the incubator that hatches out the best or worst that it nourishes.

The fellow who boasts of his grandfather generally touches you for the drinks.

It's downright aggravating to hear blatant wealth shouting of the blessings of the poor.

The man who does not believe in good women is not fit to be the associate of any woman.

People who marry with a hot air send off, sometimes awaken to find themselves in a mighty cold draught.

Now cometh the gentle spring when it will take nineteen full grown people to take one 2 year old to the circus.

The mantle of charity may cover a multitude of sins, but I notice there is never even a rag for the poor, miserable sinner.

The mysterious woman is always interesting, but like a pyrotechnic display, you never know what is coming. A distance may be safety.

A woman who thinks she was beautiful in her young days always finds comfort in the thought, no matter how old and wizened she may become.

FIRST MATCH PLAY AT HOME

SINNIPPIC CLUB MEETS ROCKFORD TODAY.

LADIES ACCOMPANY TEAM

Nearly Thirty Are Competing at the Links—Putting Contest This Morning—Club Dinner.

Rockford and Janesville are battling at the Sinissippi links. Forty-three members of the Rockford Country club, about a dozen of them being ladies, arrived on a special over the interurban this morning. "Mary," the new double-ended, was used for the purpose.

A number of private conveyances were in waiting to take the guests of the Sinissippi club to the links. There the morning was spent in playing over the course.

Putting Contest
A putting contest around the clock was held during the morning and the prizes were taken by S. H. Reck and Mrs. A. W. Wheelock.

Among the visitors were Messrs. and Mesdames R. Shumway, F. Haines, J. Stanley Brown, S. H. Reck, F. Keeler, D. Treat, Wait, Alcott, A. C. Barnes, F. Nelson; Mesdames A. W. Wheelock, Edmund Camlin; Miss: Louise Nelson, all of Rockford, and Miss Paulstrom of Hastings, Minn.

At noon dinner was served by the club chef, Louis Moulton.

Began Playing Early
Shortly after six o'clock the play began. Slight delay was caused by the failure of some of the long list of Janesville players to appear promptly at the links.

The drawing for position gave the pairing as follows, the home player in each instance being given first:
Al. Schaller, Keeler; L. Brown, Gorham; C. Brewer, Treat; F. J. Baker, McCready; O. Sutherland, Starr; C. Schaller, Stewart; H. G. Carter, Forbes; J. P. Baker, Parker; Achterberg, Shumway; MacLean, Tritle; McGinn, Nelson; Dunn, Stevens; McKimney, Haines; King, Barnes; Brownell, Brown; Golden, Church; Bliss, Hemming; Tallman, Alcott; Hill, Haines; Lane, Galbraith; Baumann, Franklin; Fife, Tritle.

Festivities Tonight
The program for this evening has not been decided upon, but a dance will probably be in order at the clubhouse. The majority of the visitors will not return to the Forest City before the ten o'clock car.

DOINGS AT THE RAILWAY CENTER

Persons of Employees in the Local Yards and Along the Line.

At the general offices of the Chicago & North-Western a new order has been issued relative to double headers on big freight trains. On freight trains of over thirty cars, exclusive of the caboose, the custom of having double headers will be discontinued except in case of storms, "engine failure," or to avoid engines "running light" to and from shops or from one part of the road to another.

Pusher or helper engines will only be used as has been the custom heretofore, namely, to assist trains over "ruling grades."

This custom is said to be coming generally into use on all railroads, the reason being that a double-header, or two engines pulling one large heavy train are not so easily managed so the risk of accidents is greater.

A new eating house is being put in place down at the North-Western yards for the benefit of the coal handlers. An old box car was removed from the tracks, and sawed into, and one of the halves made into the lunch room for the men.

E. M. Dousman, operator on the St. Paul road, formerly at Milwaukee is taking C. L. Jacobs' place during the absence of Mr. Jacobs in Iowa.

Engineer Anthony Wilkenson of the St. Paul road has not been well the past few days and is not on duty.

Mr. P. Riedy, ticket agent at the North-Western depot has returned from a brief business trip to Chicago.

The paths of the North-Western roundhouse park are having a surface layer of cinders placed on them.

A. J. Tripp, engineer on the passenger run between Janesville and Chicago, returned to work yesterday morning.

Operator C. A. Bonell of Brooklyn, Wis., is in the city to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Jones.

Ed. Broderick, North-Western switchman, took a switch engine to Chicago for repairs.

Engineer James Alexander, C. & N. W., reported for work this morning.

GRAND EXCURSION
Sunday Schools to Hold Annual Outing at Lake Geneva.

The Union Sunday school committees held a meeting last evening and perfected final arrangements for a grand excursion and picnic to Lake Geneva at $1 for the round trip, including boat ride on Lake Geneva. Special train will leave Janesville via C. M. & St. P. R'y at 8:15 a. m., Tuesday, July 14th; leave Lake Geneva at 5 o'clock. Tickets will be on sale at Hall, Sayles & Fife's and S. C. Burnham & Co's.

John Bartlett of Beloit and Dr. C. B. Jones of Chicago yesterday called

UNUSUAL SIGHT IN LUMBER TRAIN

Thirty Carloads of Wisconsin Red Oak, Weighing 30,072 Tons, Passes Through the City.

At four-thirty o'clock this afternoon an unusual trainload of freight will leave Janesville over the St. Paul road. Thirty cars in one train loaded to the limit with Wisconsin red oak, the total weight of the shipment, being 30,072 tons. The lumber is due to leave at 4:30 and is going to a big furniture factory in Chicago. The train was loaded for the American Hardwood Lumber company of Madison at La Fargo up in the Kikapoo Indian country. All of this lumber is Wisconsin clear red oak and makes it a notable one. The train will be in front of the St. Paul depot before leaving.

OBJECTION MADE TO BANK NOTE

BASED ON ALDERMAN SALE'S CONNECTION WITH BANK.

UNDER CHARTER PROVISION

Another Chapter in Crusade to Enforce Literal Reading of Law—Miscellaneous Council Enactments.

Last night's council meeting; an attempt was made to throw out a note owned by the Bower City bank against the city because Judge Sale, an alderman, is a director of the bank. The action was based on the same section of the city charter which prevented J. B. McLean's retaining the superintendency of the crusher plant, and made the bill of the Lowell Hardware company against the city invalid.

On the same grounds objections were made to the notes which were said to be virtually in the names of the Bower City bank, although taken out by A. E. Blingham and G. G. Sutherland.

The council was evenly split on the proposition, and the discussion grew heated. The question was decided by Mayor Wilson, who voted in favor of payment of the note. The city attorney will probably be called upon for an opinion on the matter.

For New Bookkeeping
Hamilton Richardson, L. B. Carlo, and A. P. Burnham, the committee who some time previously made recommendations to the council regarding a better system of bookkeeping for the city's offices, were authorized to perfect such a system and make the necessary purchases of books, at a cost not to exceed fifty dollars. An assistant for the city clerk's office and later for the treasurer's office is to be employed at twenty-five dollars a month.

Bridge Improvement
The Monterey bridge will be scraped and painted, and the supporting parts tightened.

To temper the sufferings of the common council during the coming sultry weeks, the electric fan will be moved from the old council chambers to the new.

Attention was called to the failure of the school board to comply with the section of the city charter requiring a semi-annual report. The report should have been in the hands of the common council last evening. On the ground that the band stand at the east end of the courthouse park has not been used wholly for legitimate purposes it was ordered torn down.

New Flag Ordinance
A flagman was ordered stationed at the Five Points by the Milwaukee and North-Western roads, an ordinance to that effect being rushed through from its introduction to its passage. Only a gateman is stationed there at present, and he has three gates to handle. A horse was killed there not long ago, and a man barely escaped. Further accidents have been feared.
The assessors were given until July 25 to complete their work. They were so late in beginning their work, due to the late session of the legislature, that they were greatly delayed.
The freetracker ordinance was held over, the suggestion being that additions be made which would restrict the use of toy revolvers.

FIREMEN EXAMINED TONIGHT

Applicants for Positions Will be Closely Questioned.
Examinations will be held this evening for positions in the fire department. There are four vacancies in the department, and although there have been a number of others who have made application, there are not many more than that number who have been extended any encouragement.

The examination will probably consist of questions relating to practical fire service—the location of boxes in the city; the duty of a fireman in case of dangerous conflagrations; the best method of laying hose; use of various pieces of fire apparatus; and similar questions.

Union Sunday School Excursion
The Sunday schools of Janesville will unite in an excursion and picnic to Lake Geneva by way of Walworth, new line of the C. M. & St. P. R'y, and electric line, Tuesday, July 14th. The boats will be in waiting at the docks to take excursionists around the lake. The very low price of $1 for round trip including boat ride has been secured.

"YELLOW KID" WAS HERE ON CRUISE

Floating House Was Transported From Upper to Lower Dam—Trip Ends At Beloit.

Tanned to the color of Indians, four voyagers passed through this city in a house boat yesterday. Their craft is the "Yellow Kid" and is painted to match the name. It was launched for its annual cruise at Fort Atkinson nearly two weeks ago.

When the upper dam was reached the boat was taken from the water and hauled overland to a point below the Monterey Woolen mills. Then the cruise was resumed.

While the boat was being transported the travellers made a rush for the post office to receive the mail which was in waiting for them. They were Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Hackley of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sherman of Beloit. The trip ends at Beloit.

RETURN OF THE KEITHLINE TAX

NEWARK HEIRS GET OVER TWELVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

OLD LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

First Judgment in the County Court Ordering Return of, Legacy Tax Under New Law.

By a judgment rendered in the county court this morning the heirs of Peter Keithline of the town of Newark, recovered over twelve hundred dollars which was paid from the estate as inheritance tax at the time it was divided among the heirs. This is the first return of an inheritance tax under the law passed this year by the state legislature, following the decision by the supreme court that the previous law was unconstitutional.

Law Was Unconstitutional
Two years ago last winter the inheritance law was enacted which appropriated a certain share of all estates above a certain amount as a legacy tax. The Keithline estate, after all necessary allowances had been made, amounted to $128,379.92 in personal property, upon which the tax was computed. Some time ago the supreme court declared the law under which this tax was levied unconstitutional, and during the last session of the legislature a new inheritance law was created, and provision was made for the return of taxes paid under the former law.

Money Ordered Returned
Judge Sale this morning gave judgment ordering the return of the tax, and the other parties concerned waived the right of appeal so County Treasurer Rice immediately paid to Miles Keithline, in behalf of the heirs, the amount of the tax—$1,219.61.

There were about forty-five cases on the July term of the county court, which opened today, but there were few contests. The principal contested wills were those which have been repeatedly adjourned from previous terms.

Library Closes Evenings

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, July 7, 1863.—The report of the surrender of Vicksburg is indeed glorious news. As soon as an official dispatch is received it will be safe to celebrate. It appears to be authentic, and we understand it is fully believed in Chicago.

Lee in a Tight Place.—The news from the Potomac indicates that Lee will be unable to cross the river, which has risen six feet and is not fordable. He must fight another battle or surrender. It is said that another battle is imminent.

Political.—There is some discussion going on in the republican papers of this state in regard to the policy of discontinuing the republican party and substituting a union party in its place. Our own opinion is that the republican organization should be adhered to.

The 17th Connecticut and three other regiments under the command of Col. Noble, acting as brigadier, marched through the streets of Gettysburg on Sunday morning, to give the citizens a Fourth of July salute, the band playing Yankee Doodle. The citizens greeted the troops with every manifestation of enthusiasm.

The longest stage route in the world is the one between Atchison in Kansas and Placerville in California—one thousand nine hundred and fifteen miles long. The fare is two hundred dollars—ten and a half cents a mile.

The Third Wisconsin cavalry now numbers about one thousand able-bodied men for service. It can be fairly said that, after a year and a half of arduous and harassing service, it is now the very largest, best armed, and best mounted cavalry regiment in the field—and the men are as good as the best.

London Omnibus Thieves.

A recent case at Clerkenwell sessions, says the London Telegraph, has drawn attention to the fact that the present day successors of the immortal Fagin have adopted themselves to the mutability of human affairs and brought within the purview of their nefarious practices that useful, if sometimes irritating, means of transit, the omnibus. To travel in a bus implies a purse and a full bus involves the probability of about a dozen purses lurking in about as many pockets with a moral certainty of silver therein, and the off-chance of gold lying snugly in the inner recesses. To possess money in London, is to make one's self the natural prey of a certain section of the community, whose one idea in life is to get possession of some other person's purse and not infrequently the idea materializes successfully.

Women on shopping and other expeditions patronize the bus extensively and in a crowded car it is not always possible for the female passenger to guard the cash receptacle, stowed away in the position dictated by the exigencies of the latest fashion in pockets. The smart pickpocket thereby scores and lives on the fat of the land, until his overboldness brings about his own undoing.

Scotland Yard officials' opinion is that pocket-picking in omnibuses is not on the increase, although at times there is an epidemic of complaints. But that is easily explained. London thieves are specialists in their several departments and they rarely work individually. A gang forms and carries on successful operations for a time, then one, or it may be a couple, of the members are caught and to rake in the others and keep them out of harm's way for "a short stretch" is not a matter of insuperable difficulty to the police. Ungallant as it may be to relate it, the opinion of the most experienced detectives connected with both the metropolitan and city police forces is that the most expert pickpockets who operate in omnibuses and railway terminals are women whose personal appearances would never suggest suspicion, except to those whose business it is to watch and wait for events.

And the way in which even the expert thief-catcher may be victimized is illustrated in the following experience of a detective whose name is a terror in criminal London. Not long ago this officer had occasion to meet his mother at one of the great London railway stations and escort her to his home. To reach there it was necessary to cross the metropolis in an omnibus. Solicitous for his mother's portable property, he warned her to be careful of her purse. It was holiday time and a lot of people wanted to get into that particular bus. On gaining their seats the mother's purse was found to be safe in her pocket, but the detective's presentation watch and chain had vanished.

Millions In Sovereigns

The average Briton is but faintly familiar with the delicate process of testing through which every coin of the realm has to pass in the course of its existence and which forms one of the most interesting ceremonies in connection with our coinage, says London Tit-Bits. These tests are necessary not only to insure every coin minted being up to the standard but in order that the nation shall not be put to considerable cost by the lack of sufficient alloy in the money it spends. The mint turns out 8,000,000 sovereigns a year, so it will be seen that if a superabundance of gold were used (even if it amounted to only a few grains in a sovereign) it would entail a loss of several thousands annually. Again when a sovereign has depreciated 2 pence in value, it has to be recalled.

In addition to the very critical test to which every coin is subjected, before leaving the mint, an examination of the coinage is held, usually in July, by a number of experts from the Goldsmiths' company, who thus check the work of the officials at the mint.

After having been struck a coin is first weighed in an automatic balance which weighs twenty-three pieces a minute and which is capable of detecting a flaw down to the smallest fraction of a grain. This process over, the coin is passed on to the "ringer" which individual spends his days in simply ringing new money, to discover such coins as may be rendered dumb by an air bubble in the metal. An expert, "ringer" will sound 50,000 pieces a day and, naturally, his hearing must be without blemish.

Coins which have passed this test might be considered accurate, but the "pyx meeting" which has been held annually by the Goldsmiths company since 1870, reduces the chances of faulty coins being placed in circulation to a minimum. Such money as is to be submitted to this further test, is selected at random, from that which has been handed over to the bank of England by the mint, and is kept locked and sealed in a large iron bound chest until the assembly of the meeting. It is then first tested by weighing and a record is kept of every coin so treated, after which it is assayed to make certain that the proper proportions of gold or silver and alloy have been used, and, finally some of the money is melted down and the component parts are again checked.

In this way, every coin of the realm is bound to be up to the standard, but in circulation it depreciates in value very quickly. The silver coins do so to a greater extent than either gold or bronze, especially sixpences, which rarely stand more than twenty years hard wear. Coins to the face value of nearly £2,000,000 are withdrawn from circulation every year to be remelted, the actual loss on silver money being nearly £38,000. So the officials besides testing the coins which leave the mint, have to be ever on the alert to detect depreciation. Not only the gold and silver coinage, but the bronze, must be equally well looked after, even down to the half farthing or "double" which circulates in the channel islands alone.

CAUSES OF HAY FEVER

Hymel The Only Cure—Gives Change of Climate in Your Own Home.

Fifty years ago hay fever had not been named, but undoubtedly people suffered then as they do now with storms of sneezing, profuse watering of the eyes, excessive running of the nose, intense smarting and itching and stuffed up feeling in the head.

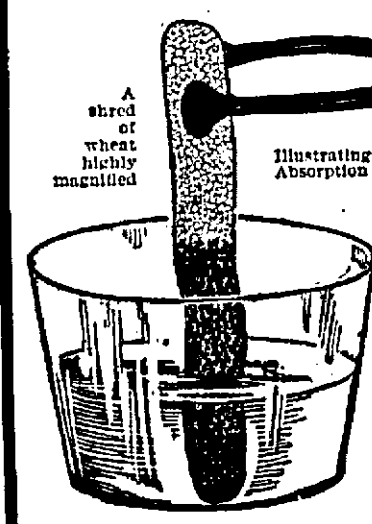

The direct causes appear to be heat, dust and the pollen of flowers. Although hay fever may occur at any season of the year, it is most common and severe in August, and preventative treatment should be adopted some weeks before the time the disease is due.

Prior to the discovery of the remarkable effects of following the use of Hymel, the only treatment that gave relief to hay fever sufferers was change of climate. The use of Hymel enables anyone to breathe the air at home which is like that of the Odoradocks, the White Mountains, or other health resorts where healing balsams fill the air with nature's germ destroyer, ozone.

Those who are subject to hay fever should begin the use of Hymel at once and thus prevent the disease. An ounce of prevention is worth a more than a pound of cure in the treatment of hay fever.

People's Drug Co., have seen the good effects following the use of Hymel in all diseases of the respiratory organs, and are willing to sell Hymel to any hay fever sufferer, with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction, the treatment will cost nothing.

ROY PIERSON

88 South Main Street,

TRIBUTE TO BEECHER

ONE-TIME FOE TELLS OF HIS WONDERFUL ELOQUENCE.

How the Matchless Orator Quelled Turbulent Mob Gathered to Howl Him Down—The Greatest Moment of a Great Life.

"I see they are going to build a memorial to Henry Ward Beecher," said my white-haired Southern friend, who, in spite of his soft voice and gravely gentle demeanor, had been a fire-eater in the old days. "It's time they did, and I shall send in my subscription."

I looked up surprised. "I thought you fought for the other side during the war?"

"So I did, and perhaps that's why I know he deserves a monument," said the colonel, smiling. "I know he was the greatest orator who ever lived."

"Demosthenes and Cicero ain't in it, I suppose?"

"Not with him," the colonel insisted. "Let me tell you a story to prove it."

So I settled back in my armchair—the colonel's reminiscences were always a little vacation in my work-day life.

"You know during the war I was sent to England by the confederacy to work up public sentiment for our side. Well, there were a number of us, and we worked up a good deal of sentiment, so much so that Abe Lincoln began to take notice of it, and after a while he sent Beecher over to make some speeches against us."

"When Beecher landed in Liverpool the town was already billed for his first speech, and we were already there in force to see that he shouldn't make it. The night came and the hall was packed, largely with our sympathizers and with men whom we had scattered through the audience and hired to hoot and make cat calls, and utterly drown out the speaker's voice. It wasn't exactly generous, I admit, but, you know, those were desperate days."

"So when he entered it was pandemonium let loose—you never heard such a racket. He had to come in at the rear and walk the whole length of the hall down the middle aisle through a howling mob of enemies. I can see him now as he braced himself, shook that mane of his, walked slowly to the front and climbed the platform. He took off his overcoat deliberately and put it and his hat on a chair, he tested a reading desk that stood in the middle, found it loose, and carried it out of the way. Then he turned, walked slowly to the front, faced the whirlwind a minute, and then said, in a voice that went through our yelling like a cannon ball through a cotton field."

"Boys, this ain't fair!"

"We forgot to yell for a minute, stopped to draw breath against him, and in that pause he hurled upon us the most wonderful sentence that ever fell from the lips of mortal man. A thousand times I have tried, to reword it, but always in vain. I know only that it appealed to the British sense of fair play, to the old, historic British sense of justice. And I know from that first moment every man of us forgot why he was there—utterly forgot himself and his country, and I know also that within ten minutes we were breaking the hush with cheers that took the roof off. Cheers, yes, sir; we who were there to silence him, who hated him and his cause. He held us there cheering for two hours, and not till it was all over and we had left that place of magic did we realize what we had done. If you can find in all history such another miracle wrought by an orator I'd like to know of it."

"I tell you, he was forever hurling thunderbolts that night that were lightning flashes from him. He was not like a man, but some supernatural power. Every soul there fell under the spell, even the reporters. The London papers all sent their best men, with orders to take a verbatim report of the speech, and not one of them got beyond 'Boys, this ain't fair.' The London Times actually discharged its representative because of his failure."

Ten or fifteen years later I met Beecher. He agreed with me that that fight in Liverpool was the great moment of his life, said that then, and then only, he had felt as though possessed by a god, as though uttering not his own words, but those of some archangelic power. He regretted deeply that the one speech by which he would like to be remembered should have perished in the utterance.—Atlanta Constitution.

MISTAKE OF WOMAN SNOB.

Supercilious Lion Hunter "Passed Up" Miss Helen Gould.

A New York woman who prides herself on her speaking acquaintance with a large number of notables and who openly admits the pleasure she derives from talking with such personages, came to grief a few weeks ago, in the following manner:

She was at a large reception and her hostess, who knew her friend's peculiarities, introduced her to a little brown-eyed woman, whose name the notable-loving guest did not catch.

"Well," said the hostess as the guest was going home, an hour later. "I hope you had a pleasant talk with—"

"With that little woman you introduced me to?" interrupted the guest. "No, I just said a word or two to her and moved away in search of someone more important. Who was she anyway? I didn't catch her name. Not that it matters."

"It was Miss Helen Gould," replied the hostess quietly.

All other knowledge is hurtful to him who has not honesty and good nature.

force of 200 business men is organizing to resist it. The negroes are equally apprehensive, and, in anticipation of a general massacre, are leaving Baptist town as fast as possible. Scores of colored families packed their belongings and started to flee during the day. Newburg road, leading to the west, is lined with their wagons. The occupants are all armed and a lonely white man has little chance to survive an attempt to pass them.

Those remaining in Baptist town are said by the whites to be mobilizing for a general attack on the latter.

Attack Negro Saloon.

The mob destroyed the Blue Goose saloon, a negro resort in Baptist town. The windows and doors were demolished and a hundred shots fired. There was a circus in town, which has brought additional crowds of sympathizers with the different races. The police have been at work preventing crowds from gathering. There have been dozens of personal encounters, but no duels with weapons.

Mayor Issues Statement.

Mayor Covert issued a statement asserting that the feeling between the whites and blacks had been brewing for some time, and that the murder of Patrolman Massey only intensified it.

He forbids crowds on the streets, and orders the arrest of any one found carrying weapons. Boisterous or incendiary talk, he adds, will also be considered ground for arrest.

The arms and ammunition taken from the stores are still in the mob's hands, however, and to avoid danger of an increase in the excitement police court was adjourned without attempt to arraign those arrested for rioting.

Patrolman Massey was buried by the Knights Templar. There was a very large attendance, the cortege being headed by a platoon of police officers.

Sheep the Safest.

A sheep farmer in Perthshire, the owner of a fine collie dog, was visited by a gentleman, who took a fancy to the animal. He offered many pounds for the dog and bought him. Afterward the gentleman asked the farmer if it would not be more profitable to breed such dogs instead of sheep? "No, no," said the farmer, "I can aye get merchants to buy my sheep, but I canna aye get fools to buy my dogs."

Device to Stop Trains.

A novel device is being tried for automatically stopping a train. A double dial is attached to one of the driving wheels; this registers the number of miles. Another part of the dial is fitted with a series of stops, arranged to coincide exactly with the distance of each station from the preceding one. As the train runs into the station zone the "stop" acts on a throttle valve and pulls up the train within the specified limits.
